Juan Cordova

Juan Cordova is a Professional Development Associate for The Leadership and Learning Center located in Denver, Colorado. He is presently the Principal of Sunrise Elementary School. Previous to that he has served in a variety of capacities including a Principal of a middle school, an Assistant Principal, a Dean and a Social Studies teacher. He is presently assisting in the planning of a new intermediate/middle school, which is scheduled to open in August 2007.

In addition to being a Principal, Juan teaches introductory education classes at Central Florida Community College. As a Professor of introductory education classes, he gets the opportunity to directly impact up and coming teachers, sharing with them a realistic view of what teaching is like and providing them with a foundation for future success. On occasion, Juan gets the opportunity to teach about one of his great passions, ESL students, for Florida Southern University. Juan has a wealth of experience with professional development, including work as a district trainer in Clinical Education and the Florida Performance Measurement System. Both of these involvements tie directly to his desire to positively impact beginning teachers.

Juan holds a B.A. and a Specialist Degree from the University of Florida and a Masters from Florida International University. He is working on his PhD and is expecting completion in summer of '07 in Educational Leadership.

Juan lives with his wife Beth, a fellow elementary school principal, his son Trevor, a 2nd grader and his daughter Alexis, a kindergartener in Ocala, Florida. He sings in his Church's Praise Band and plays a variety of sports. He and his wife enjoy discussing and debating education, spending time with their children, traveling and relaxing. His personal motto for success is "Good is not enough when better is possible." He uses this as the driving force in everything he does.
